My most embarrassing moment happened when my sister had her new boyfriend over for dinner. I had made dinner because my mom had to work late. It wasn't a problem. I made frozen lasagna, and it turned out fine. That was not the embarrassing part. I had set the table nicely, too. That was not the embarrassing part, either. Everything looked really great. I even had flowers on the table. They looked nice, too. Then I went to turn on the music. That was when things went bad.

I was working on a project for social studies, and I was making a recording of songs. That wouldn't have been so bad except that I was singing the songs. So when I turned on the music, on came me singing really loudly. I am just an OK singer, not a great singer. My sister looked mad. I thought my sister was going to toss the lasagna right at me. Her boyfriend got this look on his face. Nobody said anything. I turned on a radio station as fast as I could. I don't even remember which one because I was so embarrassed that I just pressed a button. It was not a good experience.
